LOS ANGELES, CA, Jun 26 (MARKET WIRE) -- G Printing is proud to announce that the beta testing phase of its current online ordering system for companies' collateral materials is coming to a close. G Printing's website (www.printwithg.com) is geared around simplicity for its clients. The company's website products will offer high quality printed materials at an extremely competitive price. Printwithg.com is a section of G Printing's total product line, but the items available online are the company's most popular. Believing that simple is always the best, they have presented an easy to use front side website that ties directly to the back end production.

Competing as a Los Angeles printer & a Las Vegas printer, these guys know how competitive the market place is. In order for them to support their clients, which are primarily sales and marketing buyers, they have developed an online ordering system that is easy to use with the combination of simple project tracking. Often times the most difficult part of budgeting an advertising campaign is the timing of delivered materials. G Printing's proven record of quality materials delivered on time creates an environment of reliability when it comes to coordinating print materials to the final user of the materials.

Los Angeles printing & Las Vegas printing are two of the most competitive printing markets in the country. The launch of printwithg.com will be coupled with an aggressive marketing campaign developed by their parent company G Advertising LLC (www.advertisewithg.com), and a sales strategy based on customer service. The team that has been assembled for the launch is an experienced group that understands the value of a good product at a good price delivered with comprehensive customer service.

At G Printing they believe that top quality printing matched with great pricing is the key to the success of their clients. G Printing is dedicated to using the highest quality materials with the most advanced technologies available in the printing industry. They pay close attention to every order to ensure that they are completed accurately and efficiently, so when you pass your files to them you can rest easy.
