LAS VEGAS, NV, Dec 17 (MARKET WIRE) -- G Advertising is happy to announce that the testing phase of G Printing (www.printwithg.com) has entered its beta testing phase of development. G Printing is intended to compete as a Las Vegas printer. In the competitive market of printing, G Advertising promotes its distinct advantage of its online ordering, and order-tracking system, coupled with pricing that is extremely aggressive.

G Printing (www.printwithg.com) has an initial launch set for the end of January. The initial launch of the website will offer a limited amount of products that G Advertising currently offers to its Los Angeles based clients. The company's intent is to keep it simple thru the first quarter of 2008 in order to test out the market and to identify areas of market share that have not been tapped. Once any bugs have been worked out, G Printing will extend its product line to match the needs of the local community.

Las Vegas printing is extremely competitive, but the quality, speed, and the price that G Printing will offer puts them in line to beat out the local competition. G Printing's online ordering system will allow customers to log into an account, place orders and upload files. It will keep a record of customer orders so the next time a customer places a re-order of the same item they will be able to log into their account to check the quantity, price, and date of their last order to gauge what they will need to order this time. This automated system, accompanied with the quality that Las Vegas is used to, will allow G Printing to keep pricing down for both Los Angeles printing and Las Vegas printing markets.

G Advertising is excited about moving into the Las Vegas printing market, and looks forward to competing with the local printers and advertisers in Las Vegas.
